

UzTest sets to propel Uzbekistan businesses by being part of the IQNET community

Bern, January 2026 – The management Systems Certification Body of Uzbek Center for Scientific Testing and Quality Control (UzTest) has recently joined the IQNET community, only a year after being affiliated with the network. This marks IQNET's first ever presence in Central Asia.

As a state institution established in 2002, UzTest sets its own task such as constant development of quality infrastructure, ensuring reliable results for consumers through constant improvement in the quality of service, from laboratory to certification.

UzTest is accredited against ISO/IEC 17021-1 by International MLA signatories. In addition to compliance with accredited or recognized international requirements and criteria, UzTest was selected due to its established capabilities, resources, services to contribute to the purpose and strategy of IQNET; and most importantly, displays influence in their country or market of origin.

As part of the IQNET community, UzTest from now on takes part in sharing and cooperation initiatives of the Network, harmonization of integrity principles, operation criteria, products and services. This allows UzTest to better support their clients in achieving global competitiveness, get access to innovative and globally recognized products and trusted services.

Business certified by UzTest from this point forward, shall receive a complementary IQNET Statement of Recognition, be present in the IQNET database of registered organizations, and can proudly carry the IQNET recognized certification mark. These exclusive benefits allow the certified company to be recognized worldwide, to be at par with international players, and become verifiable, opening for them more opportunities to trade, build international presence, and sustain growth.
